ODD LITTLE GIRL.

I wish the world could visit us
And know our daughter, Bess—
A doll of eighteen years and past
Who doesn't care for dress.
She will not go a single place
Unless her parents go,
And though she is a perfect queen,
She will not have a beau.

Given Germany—British Fleet Sank Three Great Warships—1,500 Tonnage Perish

Every Indication That Kaiser's Defeat Is Sure

London, December 9.—The British navy has squared the account with Admiral Von Spee. In the most terrific naval engagement in point of guns and tonnage yet fought in the war Vice Admiral Sir Frederick Sturdee's cruiser squadron engaged the German squadron of Von Spee, sunk his flagship, the armored cruiser Scharnhorst of 11,450 tons, its sister ship, the Gneisenau, and the light cruiser Leipzig of 3,200 tons. The light cruisers Nürnberg and Dresden escaped and are being pursued by the victorious British fleet. Two colliers attached to the German fleet were captured.

The official statement of the admiralty published by the press bureau tonight says some survivors of the Gneisenau and Leipzig were rescued, but no mention is made of any survivors of the flagship Scharnhorst, and it is believed that Admiral Von Spee went down with his ship. The complements of the Scharnhorst and the Gneisenau were 764 men each and that of the Leipzig 303. Thus more than 1,800 officers and men were aboard the three ships sunk, and it is believed the losses will exceed 1,500.

Russia May Attempt Invasion of Germany Across Silesian Border.

London, December 9.—The Russian war office stated that a serious defeat had been inflicted on the Germans in one of the three war areas in the east.

It is announced that in the region of Cracow, Galicia, the Germans were put to rout, the right wing being turned and that they are still being pursued. German losses are described as enormous.

It has been suggested in London that the Russians would content themselves with remaining on the defensive in Poland, following recent German successes there and that by sending reinforcements into Galicia they would attempt to invade Germany from the south across the Silesian border.

CORONER'S JURY

Fails To Find the Cause of the Death of S. B. Mackey.

Last night at 7:30 o'clock Coroner Charles Slack and jury held an inquest in the office of Squire Fred W. Bauer at the court house and endeavored to find out the cause of the death of Mr. S. B. Mackey, whose body was found in the East End Tuesday evening about 6 o'clock between the street car and railroad tracks. After hearing the evidence of the witnesses the jury returned the following verdict:

Maysville, Ky., Dec. 9, 1914.

We, the jury find that the body of a white man found December 8, 1914, near Dietrich's greenhouse, Mason county, Kentucky, to be that of S. B. Mackey of Lewis county, Kentucky, and from the evidence we find that his death was caused from wounds inflicted in some manner unknown to the jury.

(Signed):

H. L. WALSH,

L. ED. BULLOCK,

GEORGE H. DIENER,

JAMES S. REDMOND,

C. F. REED,

JOE CRAWFORD.

It is generally thought at this time that Mackey was either struck by a falling lump of coal from a passing train or was sandbagged by some one for the purpose of robbery. Local police and detectives are working on the matter, however, and there may be something come to light in a few days.
